(2025. 6)

一、考试内容：

Form groups of three or four and create a dialogue for each of the following topics.

1. As college students, effectively balancing academic responsibilities with personal well-being is essential for success. Since the new semester begins, you and your friends are working together to create a structured weekly schedule that ensures both productive study time and meaningful leisure activities. Talk about your time management strategies and how you allocate time for study, hobbies, and social activities.
2. In recent years, an increasing number of people have been migrating to major cities like Wuhan in pursuit of better opportunities. While urban living offers significant benefits, it also presents certain challenges that require thoughtful consideration. Within your group, discuss Wuhan's pros and cons as a living destination, propose solutions to key challenges, and then state if you'd settle there long-term, supporting your choice with personal rationale.
3. Artificial intelligence has been transforming many industries and changing the way people work. Discuss with your group which jobs might be replaced by AI in the future, and which ones could become more important. Also share your own career plans and talk about whether you think AI will be a help or a threat to your future profession.
